

Watershed Health Standard 3-Upland Vegetation Health

Page 42-1 Wyoming big sagebrush community in the Red Desert

Page 42-2 Mountain big sagebrush community on Ferris Mountain

Watershed Health Standard 3-Upland Vegetation Health

Page 42-3 Nuttall's saltbush community in Separation Creek drainage

Page 43-1 Black greasewood community near Chain Lakes

Watershed Health Standard 3-Upland Vegetation Health

Page 43-2 Silver sagebrush and unvegetated dunes south of Ferris Mountain

Page 43-3 Wyoming big sagebrush and black sagebrush communities in the Sweetwater River valley

Watershed Health Standard 3-Upland Vegetation Health

Page 44-1 Shooting stars in Wyoming Threetip sagebrush community

Page 44-2 Mountain mahogany community with conifers on Ferris Mountain

Page 44-3 Pine, spruce, fir and aspen woodland on Ferris Mountain

Watershed Health Standard 3-Upland Vegetation Health

Page 44-4 Big sagebrush with limber pine community on Seminoe Mountain

Page 45-1 Winter sheep grazing in the Great Divide Basin

Watershed Health Standard 3-Upland Vegetation Health

Page 45-2 Wild horses at water development in Red Desert

Page 46-1 Remnant aspen trees in spruce fir woodland

Watershed Health Standard 3-Upland Vegetation Health

Page 48-1 Encroachment of sagebrush on aspen in Jep Canyon

Page 48-2 Removal of sagebrush has released aspen along the edge of the stand

Watershed Health Standard 3-Upland Vegetation Health

Page 48-3 Mistletoe shown here and pine beetle infestations kill conifers in the Ferris and Seminoe Mountains

Page 48-4 Dead conifers, pine beetle
Infestation on the Ferris Mountains

