

Watershed Health Standard 4-Wildlife/Threatened and

Page 60-1 Horned lizard (“Horny Toad”) in the North Platte River watershed

Page 60-2 Prairie rattlesnake in Wyoming big sagebrush

Watershed Health Standard 4-Wildlife/Threatened and Endangered Species Habitat Health

Page 60-3 Antelope doe and fawns in Great Divide Basin

Page 61-1Elk in sagebrush/limber pine habitat, Bradley Peak

Watershed Health Standard 4-Wildlife/Threatened and Endangered Species Habitat Health

Page 62-1 Mule deer doe resting next to building in Rawlins

Page 62-2 Bighorn sheep ewe in Seminoe Mountains

Watershed Health Standard 4-Wildlife/Threatened and Endangered Species Habitat Health

Page 63-1 Golden eagle perched on highway right-of-way fence

Page 67-1 Greater-sage grouse hen and chicks in riparian habitat

Page 67-2 Greater-sage grouse male in strutting plumage

Watershed Health Standard 4-Wildlife/Threatened and Endangered Species Habitat Health

Page 68-1 Historic sheep fence of woven and barbed wire

Page 68-2 BLM Standard 3 (or 4) strand barbed wire fence, with bottom smooth wire

Watershed Health Standard 4-Wildlife/Threatened and Endangered Species Habitat Health

Page 75-1 Strutting greater-sage grouse on lek in Red Desert

Page 75-2 Cooperative water development for wildlife

Watershed Health Standard 4-Wildlife/Threatened and Endangered Species Habitat Health

Page 87-1 Young Ferruginous hawks on artificial nesting structure

Page 87-2 Burrowing owl confronts a white-tailed prairie dog

Watershed Health Standard 4-Wildlife/Threatened and Endangered Species Habitat Health

Page 88-1 Blowout penstemon on open, unstabilized sand dune

Page 89-1 Mountain plover in Wyoming Three-tip sagebrush habitat
